

ZMO-Colloquium Winter Term 2021/22

Political Economies of Original Inhabitation

This lecture series sets out to showcase scholarship that considers various kinds of value relations through which categories such as original inhabitant or newcomer take on political significance. It brings together historical and contemporary studies from Africa, Asia and the Middle East. The series examines economic dimensions of claims made in relation to territory and belonging, and traces shifting logics of governance, accumulation, coexistence and contestation.

30 September 2021, 5 pm

Agriculture, Animal Husbandry, and Trade: Political Economy of Ottoman Kurdistan

Zozan Pehlivan, University of Minnesota Twin Cities

27 January 2022, 5 pm

Autochthony and Land Access in Côte d'Ivoire: Some Key Issues

Jean-Philippe Colin, UMR SENS, IRD Montpellier

28 October 2021, 5 pm

Tribality, Property and the Long Making of the Sixth Schedule of the Indian Constitution

Bodhisattva Kar, University of Cape Town

24 February 2022, 5 pm

Capitalist Relations on Indonesia's Indigenous Frontiers

Tania Murray Li, University of Toronto

25 November 2021, 5pm

Rentier Capitalism and Countermovements in Central Asia: The Moral Economy Perspective

Balihar Sanghera, University of Kent

Lectures will be held either online or on site at ZMO, depending on the situation due to the pandemic. Please check the website for further announcements.

Please register via registration@zmo.de

Conceptualization and coordination: Jacob Nerenberg (ZMO)